PRINTING IS AN INVESTMENT THAT WILL OUTLIVE US ALL

The ultimate destination for an image is for it to be immortalised in print. Music is composed to be played, a script is written to be performed and an image is taken to be printed.

We experience digital photos like a dream. Just as a dream vanishes when we wake up, a digital photo vanishes as we scroll past it or close the file. But as a print, your photograph becomes part of the real world and a part of your life.

A print is displayed somewhere and might remain for a very long time. However, a digital photo is at your mercy. Digital photos count on you to come looking for them.

Prints are not only tangible but they also are generational. Albums and photos can be passed down through generations and they hold a physical passage back to a time before that no digital album can come close to.

It is for these reasons that I want my clients to have the most beautiful and highest quality when it comes to their prints and artwork. I have searched and found boutique suppliers who craft printed pieces that are archival and timeless. I want these prints to share a bodily life with you – to inspire you, soothe you, and remind you.
